Regular Town Council Meeting

The Town Council met in regular session Thursday evening with all Councilmen, the Mayor and Secretary present. The minutes of the December meeting were read and approved, also the cash statement. This statement showed the finances of the Town in good condition.

Chairman C. F. Tollestrup and D.G. Selman of the School Board were present and reported that an agitation was on foot for the formation of another school district in the north-east corner of our district which would reduce our acreage for taxation purposes, and stated that unless a van service were provided that 10 or 12 sections may be lopped off our district and put in the new one. The matter was discussed and left with the School Board to decide on, the Council feeling that the Board was perfectly able to handle it.

A large amount of correspondence was disposed of. The Water Committee reported that the pumps at the Pump House were badly worn and giving considerable trouble asked for authorization to replace them if necessary when the new hospital was put into use. This was granted, also authority to install a meter at the Hospital so that this institution could be charged on a meter rate for water.

George Court was appointed Returning Officer for the forthcoming Town elections and will arrange for his own help as usual. The draw was then made to see which of the present Council would serve additional terms, as instructed in a new ruling from the Provincial Government. Under this new ruling only two Councilmen will retire each year instead of three, and election will be for a three year term instead of two. The Mayor's election will be as is, however, namely every two years.

The Councilmen who would ordinarily retire this year are M. T. King, Wm. Jensen and Lloyd McPhee. These names were placed in a hat, and the Mayor drew out one name, the lot falling on Lloyd McPhee, who will serve for one more year. Then the names of Clifford Gough, L. Renan Pack and Jos. McLean were placed in the hat to see which two of these men would serve an additional year. The names of Clifford Gough and L. Renan Pack were drawn out. This year then, Councilors King and Jensen retire and stand for re-election or replacement, and next year the retiring ones will be Councilors McLean and McPhee.

An application for a building lot for a new business block was discussed and the Works and Property Committee given power to act. As there was considerable unfinished business, the Council decided to meet again next Thursday night to complete this. Adjournment took place at 11:30.

R. Martell of Edmonton arrived in town Wednesday afternoon to finish up some plumbing and steam-fitting at the new Hospital.

ANNUAL MEETING JANUARY 27th

The Annual meeting of the Town and School District will be held in the Town Hall Friday evening, January 27th, at which time the Financial Statements of both bodies will be presented, along with the reports of Mayor, Chairman and Secretaries.

All interested ratepayers should be present. Nominations will be February 6th.

NEWS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Allred are visiting with relatives and friends in Utah for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Rodeback, Mr. and Mrs. Garth Gallbraith and others spent part of the week at Cutbank, Mont.

Mrs. Grant Holt went to Lethbridge this morning to see her little girl who is in the Hospital there with a broken leg.

Stafford Anderson was taken to St. Michael's Hospital Wednesday morning where he had his tonsils removed. He returned home again Thursday.

An alfalfa mill is being opened in Brooks, the building being in course of erection now. Local men have organized the company and a good market overseas for the product of the mill has already been obtained.

Mrs. Reg. Cooper left last Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. William Cooper of Cardston for a short visit with her parents and other relatives in Salt Lake City. The party will likely return next week.

Miss Eva Cope returned from the Lethbridge Hospital Wednesday afternoon after receiving a blood transfusion and Mr. Cope expects that her recovery will be quite speedy from now on.

Elder Kimball Anderson, presiding elder of the Tyrell's Lake branch and living in Raymond this winter visited at Tyrell's Lake for the Sunday services. S. I. May accompanied him.

Don't forget the Basketball game tonight. Magrath Seniors vs. Union Jacks. The Magrath team trounced the Lethbridge Aces last Friday and tonight's game should be packed with plenty of thrills. Support the local boys.

Bishop A. E. Fawns of Stirling was a business visitor here Monday. He stated that the new Recreation Hall of the ward was nearing completion now, all the work on the outside being finished and the furnace connected up on the inside.

Elder Kenneth A. Wilde of Welling, recently returned from the Tahitian Mission in the South Seas was the speaker of the Raymond 2nd Ward last Sunday evening speaking of missionary experiences and life in the islands. A number of nice musical selections made up a very interesting program.

President Melvin T. King was the speaker at the Sunday evening service in the Alberta Stake Tabernacle last Sunday evening taking for his subject "Finding real Happiness in Life." Mesdames Paul Dahl and Earl Scoville and Joseph McLean accompanied Mr. King to the Temple City, where they took part in the musical program of the meeting.

Rotary meeting was held Monday noon in the Sugar Bowl with a very good attendance present. After the fine dinner served by "Pop" Higgins and his helpers A. H. Lubraskie took the floor and presented one side of the debate "Shall we Buy National," which will be concluded next week by another speaker. Several community songs were also enjoyed by the singers, though possibly not by the listeners.

Boxing Card Success 20 Bouts Keep Fans on Toes With Lightning Action and Dynamite Slugging

The local Athletic Association scored again Wednesday night in the annual Boxing Card staged in the Opera House. Chas. E. Fawns as chairman of the Boxing Committee with the other members of the Association Executive are certainly to be congratulated for the fine card that was put on.

Opening with two battle royals the crowd was kept interested for four hours until the final bell of the 160 pound slugfest between Glen Adamson of Stirling and Melvin Jensen of Cardston.

To single out any bout and say this was best, or to rate one boxer above another hardly seems the sporting thing to do. The boys were there to give their best and they did. Some bouts were outstanding for the science and speed of the boys, others for the dynamite they blows carried. Both kinds of fans were present, those who cried for blood and those who enjoyed the science. Because of this all were satisfied.

Rayo Woolf, Shirley King and C. B. Cheeseman had charge of the weighing and draws. Orrin Tanner and Stan Jones took charge of the gloves. Bob Heggie and Ray Atwood were the seconds for the night.

Ring judges were: Teddy Wagstaffe, Raymond; Frank Hewer, Lethbridge; Dahl Caldwell and Lyle Holland, Cardston. Lloyd MacPhee and S. I. May were times, Melvin T. King was the announcer and E. Rulon Leavitt of Glenwood was the third man in the ring.

As the bouts were finished all of the visitors were treated to a splendid supper, prepared and served by the wives of the Association officials and members.

This part of the program was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Association asked us to thank everyone who assisted in any way to make the evening the splendid success that it was.

Following is the list of participants:

70 lb. — Bob Lafferty won over J. Emery of Lethbridge.

60 lb. — Bill Lafferty won over E. Brewer of Lethbridge.

70 lb. — Gordon Dahl lost to C. Meyers of Cardston.

80 lb. — C. Angus, Cardston won over M. Adams.

80 lb. — H. Brewer got the decision over E. Still.

100 lb. — S. Robinson lost to H. Heckenliable.

90 lb. — R. Angus, Cardston won over H. Jameson.

90 lb. — G. Bates, Cardston took the decision from Jim Still.

100 lb. — Jerry Witbeck won from Mark Hicken.

118 lb. — R. Dow, Lethbridge won over Mat Handsaeme.

118 lb. open — K. Myers, Cardston won over Jim McLean.

135 lb. — D. Sloan, Cardston won over A. Boguski, Leth.

135 lb. S. Kowaska won from J. Perry, Lethbridge.

147 lb. open — John Coutts, Lethbridge won from Harold Leavitt, Cardston.

Exhibition — T. Takahashi, C. Heckenliable.

Exhibition — Gordon Low, J. Emery.

147 lbs. open Dave Coutts of Lethbridge got the nod over B. Tillack, Stirling.

100 lb. Class, Junior — Hughie Sloan of Cardston won over Ste Emery of Lethbridge in a very pretty fight.

Final Bout, 160 lbs. — Glen Adamson of Stirling got the decision over Melvin Jensen from Cardston in a real slugfest.

King George VI

Chapter Four

"AND MUCH STUDY IS A WEARINESS OF THE FLESH"

—Ecclesiastes: 11 and 12

While it is true that King George the Sixth received an extremely sound education, yet the parents of the present King were careful to follow the old classical ideal of "mens sana in corpore sano."

Just as soon as the young Prince was old enough to stand up, he was given military drill. At first this instruction was supplied by Sergeant Major Wright of the Coldstream Guards, and then it was carried out under the direction of Pipe-Major Henry Forsyth of the Scots Guards and Private Simon Cameron of the Cameron Highlanders.

Furthermore, the young Prince showed a keen interest in all sports, but it is noteworthy that he always preferred to be a participant rather than a mere spectator. However the activities in all physical and sporting affairs depended entirely on the location of the Royal home because the parents of the present King wished to live in close proximity to the home.

of the late King Edward the Family spent part of the season in London, first at York House and then at Marlborough House; or Frogmore near Windsor Castle; in the late summer and early fall their home was at Abergeldie Castle near Balmoral; in the late autumn they went south to York Cottage near Sandringham where they usually spent the winter and spring, except for a short stay at Windsor in January. This implied that all physical or sporting affairs had to be adapted to definite plans and locations. For example, while in London, the Prince was an active member of the famous Bath Club where he learnt to swim and to play squash racquets, a game that has remained a favorite pastime with him throughout his life. If at Frogmore, he played the national game of cricket, showing unusual ability in his performances against the visiting teams from Eton and St. George's School at Windsor. He played golf and football whenever and wherever it was possible. While the Royal Family lived at Windsor, Sandringham or Balmoral

LEO VANCE PASSES

(By Rex P. Ehlert)

Word reached Raymond Wednesday morning of the death in Vancouver, on Tuesday night of Leo Vance, who leaves a wife and four children, besides his mother and brothers and sisters to mourn his passing.

The family left here a number of months ago, in the hope that the coast climate would help Leo, who was suffering badly from heart trouble, to which ailment he succumbed. The funeral is being held in Vancouver on Saturday.

Deceased filled an honorable mission for the L.D.S. Church in Eastern Canada and farmed both here and in Barnwell. The sympathy of the community was extended to the sorrowing wife and children and the mother and brothers and sisters in their sorrow.

W. I. MEETING HELD

The January W. I. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. E. Fisher, with Mrs. F. Leavitt in the chair. Meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada" followed with the reading of the Creed and the roll call was answered with clippings on international affairs and the minutes of the last meeting were read.

Mrs. Paris read an address written by Mrs. Thompson of Coaldale, and the rest of the meeting was given over to arranging the program for the meetings for the year. Meeting was adjourned by singing "God Save the King."

The door prize was won by Mrs. Elsie Stevens and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess Mrs. E. Fisher.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. Allan on February 9th.

V.A.D. WOOLLEY PASSES

Word was received Wednesday evening of the death in Provo, Utah of A. D. Woolley, who following a trip to Rochester, N. Y., went to Provo to spend the winter. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gibb left Thursday to attend the funeral. No details have been received. Our sympathy goes out to Mrs. Woolley and the children in their sorrow.

RATEPAYERS ASSOCIATION
MEETS TONIGHT

The Annual meeting of the Ratepayers Association of the Town will be held tonight (Friday) in the Town Hall. All interested are invited to be present. Questions of public interest will be discussed.

J. G. Kirkham has put a new roof on his house, making a much steeper pitch to it than it had before, evidently planning on additional rooms upstairs.

Work is progressing nicely likely be up into operation in about two weeks. Some of the furnishings for it are already arriving and the staff is expected shortly.

ament. 6 teams will be entered with Raymond as the only Canadian unit. The Comets will stay there over night and play again on the 27 to finish the tournament. The other teams beside Raymond and Sunburst participating are: Valier, Brady, Oilmont, and Sweetgrass.

The addition of the Idlers to the senior league has brought the number of teams up to 5. There still seems to be a mix up in the schedule, so no one exactly knows when their first game will be. It has been decided not to have a playing coach, so Wicky VanOrman has been chosen as their mastermind. He has been setting them through their paces so they will be ready for their first game when it does come. And here is a lineup of the men that will try to win more honors for the name of Idlers this season.

Ern Nilsson—Manager. One of the towns best sports, and a real aid to the Association. Was vice-president of the R.A.A.A. in 1935-36.

Wicky VanOrman—Coach. He has played 4 years with the High School, 2 years with the M Men, 1 year with Idlers, and several years on the Jacks team, so he is well qualified to fill the position.

Roy Woolley—Height 5 feet 8 inches, weighs 163, age 26, played 1 year on High School, 4 years with M Men, 3rd year with Idlers, plays guard.

Harris Walker—Height 5 feet 8 inches, weighs 160, age 26, played 3 years with M Men, 2 years with High School, 1 year at Normal 3 years Inter-Mural at U.S.A., plays forward.

Sig. Schow—Height 5 feet 10 inches, weighs 170, age 26, played 2 years on High School, 3 years on M Men, 1 year on senior team in Cardston, 1st year with Idlers, plays guard.

Lincoln Wood—Height 5 feet 9 inches, weighs 138, age 23, played 1 year on High School, 1 year on M Men, 2nd year with Idlers, plays forward.

Fay Walker—Height 5 feet 9 inches, weighs 142, age 23, played 1 year on High School, 4 years on Canadian Club, 1 year Viceroy of Inter-Mural league of B. Y. U., 1 year on Commercial team in U.S., 4 years with M Men, plays guard.

Paul Woolley—Height 5 feet 9 inches, weighs 150, age 26, played 4 years with M Men, 1st year with Idlers, plays forward.

Mel Depew—Height 5 feet 11 inches, weighs 147, age 22, played 1 year on High School, 2 years with M Men 1st year with Idlers plays forward.

Barker Schman—Height 5 feet 10 inches, weighs 141, age 20, played 3 years on High School, 1st year with Idlers plays forward.

Bill Rodeback—Height 5 feet 11 inches, weighs 156, age 18, played 1 year M Men 1st year with Idlers.

Ellsworth Scoville—Height 6 feet, weighs 157, age 19, played 1 year with M Men, 1st year with Idlers.

Arthur Hutchison—Height 5 feet 11 inches, age 20, played 1 year with Rossland Intermediates, plays guard and centre.

Tonight the Magrath senior team will play the Jacks in the Opera House to open the senior schedule in Raymond. Also tonight the local High team will play the Magrath High in Magrath. As said before we do not know when the Idlers first game will be.

Owing to certain circumstances the next two league games of the High School will not be played. In their place coach Cahoon has planned several games for them in Montana. On the 20th they will go to Cut Bank to play the High School team there. The Cut Bank team has won the State Championship in the B division for the past two years, so the Comets will have a real battle. On the 27 they will again travel to Sunburst to partake in a tour-

A MOMENTOUS PROBLEM

Farmers and business men of Taber and district have been, and are pressing strongly for a sugar factory in their midst. We don't blame them for desiring the benefits which this industry brings to a community. On the other hand, they should not be too hasty in this matter, nor so determined for immediate action. A move such as this may act as an unpleasant burden on not only to growers who may be forced to sell way below production costs, but also to business concerns who may be caught in the backwash of such action and become bankrupt from its effects. May we say here, that as a native of Southern Alberta, and interested in its future, that no one would welcome expansion of trade and industry more than us and the commerce we may make are not to discourage progress, but merely to head off unwarranted action and ultimate sacrifice to those who may let their enthusiasm get the better of their judgment; a condition which frequently occurs.

The production of beets in Southern Alberta has proven to be a successful and money-making industry, now well on the way to permanent establishment and success. Of the beet growing areas Taber is undoubtedly the best because of the chemical properties of its soil. Growing out of the industry another and profit-making business is advancing, namely the feeding of beef and lambs. Adjacent to both factories are feed yards where thousands of lambs and cattle are placed on feed each fall and turned off in the spring to top the markets for quality. Then too, dairymen are finding factory by-products very beneficial to dairy herds and profit by this fact. The beets can be grown, the sugar made and the by-products easily disposed of and used up.

This leaves the BIG question of marketing the refined sugar as the poser in a program of expansion. Two men have been on the road a good share of the time in the past two years contacting merchants in western provinces trying to sell the surplus of Alberta sugar from the product of the Raymond and Picture Butte factories, now in operation, both of which could easily handle 50 p.c more beets than were sliced in 1938. Why don't they get them? Because the market has not developed to the point where the product of full operation can be marketed. The expenses of these two men and their cars, are being clipped from the profits of the industry and every beet grower is paying a portion of his profit to this end of the business. Now place half as much again sugar on the market to sell in the same area, and you will need six or eight salesmen to advertising campaign. Who will dispose of it, besides a costly foot the bill? Can you increase the selling price of sugar to meet it? You may increase the price, but if you do you won't sell it because of the cane sugar production. Then why kill the goose that lays the golden egg? Why ruin a present successful industry? Why make it imperative for our present factories, representing a cost of two million dollars to stand idle and beet land, now returning a profit to the farmers to be forced into some other line of production?

Right now, the Dominion Govt. is subsidizing Beet sugar on Canadian markets. Countries with surpluses of cane sugar are clamoring for admittance, and there is no question but what cane sugar could be put on Canadian tables at a lower price than beet sugar and its vendors still show a profit. Why not

TOWN OF RAYMOND Notice of Annual Meeting

Public notice is hereby given that a meeting of the electors of the town of Raymond and the Raymond School District, No. 700, will be held in the Town Hall, Raymond, on Friday, January 27th, 1939 at 8 o'clock p. m.

for the purpose of receiving the Auditor's report of the finances of the Town and School District up to the preceeding 31st day of December and for the purpose of receiving the reports of the chairmen of the various committees.

allow this saving to be passed on to Canadian householders? Because everyone is interested in the progress and advancement of Canada and her industries.

We cannot speak for the present. But, when we were in the Fijian Islands some twenty years ago, we made two trips up the Rewa river looking at cane plantations and watching the crushing mills in operation where the juice was rolled out of the cane. We didn't ask many questions re costs, but we found out that a full grown man could be hired to cut and load cane for 35c. a day. We noticed that five or six huge barges, pulled by ONE motor boat would haul possibly two hundred and fifty tons of cane to the mill for the cost of hauling ONE FIVE-TON TRUCK LOAD OF BEETS to our plant, and without any wear on launch or barges. This syrup or juice, is then loaded into huge tanker ships and transported across the water for refinement. This ocean travel is the cheapest in the world, and when the juice is received it is a short process to convert it into refined and crystallized sugar to go on the market in competition with beet sugar.

Now Mr. Beet Grower, don't be penny wise and pound foolish. Everyone would like to see additional factories in Alberta, and it is our opinion that we will get them just as soon as conditions warrant. But look the matter squarely in the face. We can't hire labor for 35c. a day, nor can we haul 250 tons of beets with the fuel cost of one engine. We must take things as they come. We live in a country of high production costs. We are trying to market a sugar that meets with considerable prejudice; people like cane sugar. They can't tell you why, but they like cane sugar, just like they like Charlie McCarthy, and they buy cane sugar, because they like it. We must educate them differently, and it takes time.

While we may have to mark time for a few years, this would be much wiser than rushing about madly and spoiling what we have already accomplished. And we are of the opinion, based on the past attitude of the Canadian Sugar Factories, Ltd., that with their ears to the ground and their eye on the market, just as soon as conditions warrant, Southern Alberta will get another mill and as many more as the market for sugar will justify. Let us be reasonable and wise.

WEEKLY LETTER

DEPTH OF PLOUGHING FOR SUMMERFALLOW

Letters are occasionally received at the Station inquiring regarding the necessity for ploughing deeply or otherwise loosening up the land to some depth.

Different depths of ploughing were compared at the Station for a 7-year period extending from 1912 to 1918 and for a 4-year period from 1922 to 1925. In the first test, ploughings were made at each inch depth from 3 to 8 inches. Other plots were ploughed 5, 6, 7 and 8 inches and subsoiled 4 inches below the ploughing, giving total depth for the 8 inch ploughing and 4 inch sub-soiling of 12 inches. In the 1922-25 period ploughings were made at each inch depth from 3 to 9 inches. In the first period, the highest average yield of wheat was secured from 5 inch ploughing but there was no significant difference in any of the ploughings from 5 to 8 inches. Sub-soiling gave a slightly lower yield. In the period from 1922 to 1925 there was less than a bushel of the ploughing depths. Similar difference in the yields of any other tests made at other Experimental Stations on the prairies and at various Illustration and Sub-Stations have given similar results.

Ploughless fallowing by means of cultivating from 4 to 5 inches deep have been compared with 6 inch ploughing during the 4 year period from 1922-1925 and the 10 year period from 1929 to 1938. In both of these periods, the average yield on ploughed fallow and cultivated fallow have been 24 bushels per acre for both ploughed and ploughless fallows in the first period. Similar results also have been obtained in comparisons on ploughed and ploughless fallows at the other Experimental Stations and Illustration and Sub-stations on the prairies. Reports from Stations in the United States show similar results.

Almost all experimental data substantiate the opinion that deep cultivation does not increase yields of wheat. About the only tests that have shown any advantage from deep tillage have been conducted on very tight soils where the water soaks in with extreme difficulty. In such soils, better yields of wheat have been secured with deep ploughing, apparently because more water has been soaked into the soil where it has been opened up deeply.

The tests cited have been made purely to determine the effect of depth of tillage on the yields of wheat. There are other factors that are involved however, in determining tillage practices. Most important, undoubtedly, is the effect that tillage has on the control of soil drifting. In this regard, ploughless fallowing has usually been more satisfactory than ploughed fallowing if sufficient trash has been left on the surface to protect the soil. If a trash cover has not been left, however, ploughless fallows have drifted more rapidly than ploughed fallows especially on loam soils. Depth of ploughing has been a factor in drifting control also in some instances as deep ploughing frequently turns up more clods than is secured from real shallow ploughing.

It should be emphasized that wheat was used in the experiments just described and the results have no application for such crops as potatoes or roots.

Our Edmonton Letter

(T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Alberta — Approach of the regular session of the Alberta legislature, which begins next month, is being heralded at the parliament buildings here this week by preparation of yearly estimates in the various departments and by a low hum among politicians themselves.

There are again rumors that this session is going to see notable attempts at political fence mending and much warmth of feeling, even outside the caucus. This may prove to be the last session before a provincial general election, or if it is not the last it is sure to be the next to last regular session. The members are beginning to think of how they can be re-elected, and whether they should try to campaign again under the Social Credit label.

The most burning question to members is whether they should allow William Aberhart to lead them again, even if he wants to. He himself has not been explicit on that question: a while ago he said that he might retire in a year, but last Friday at Olds he whistled in the dark, saying that if he did not get a majority of 54 seats in the next election, he would quit. Right now in the legislature he has a majority of only 31, including four Independent Social-Crediters who are opposed to him.

New evidence that the whole Social Credit philosophy is changing, beginning now to take fact instead of theory and vote-catching devices, can be seen in a recent leading editorial in the Ottawa Citizen which although one of the Southern newspapers always has been the leading Social Credit exponent in Canada under the guidance of its editor, C. A. Bowman, who is probably closer to Major C. H. Douglas than is any other man on this continent. He is also a friend of Aberhart. In fact, it was he who introduced Aberhart around the east back in 1935 and took him to see Father Coughlin. It was Mr. Bowman, too, who brought Hon. W. D. Herridge to Edmonton to see Aberhart a few weeks ago, with a view to a political alliance.

The Ottawa Citizen many times in the past has promoted Social Credit by attacking banks. Therefore the recent editorial can be credited all the more inasmuch as it gives the chartered banks of Canada their just due.

First it noted that in the past two years more than 108,000 individual loans totalling more than $15,000,000 had been made through the "personal loan department" of just one bank and similar amounts through other banks. In addition, there were, in just 11 months of last year, 106,000 borrowers who obtained regular banking accommodation in amounts of less than $500. The total sum so advanced being $16,168,000.

"While the great volume of banking business is, of course, in much larger sums, this service to borrowers of small amounts must be appreciated by many people in Canada," The Citizen's editorial said. "It should help the Canadian people to realize that the chartered banks are efficient. The recurring periods of breakdown in the capitalist machine cannot be attributed to weakness in the administration of the banks. The valves of finance may need to be adjusted, but the reform has to come in monetary policy through the central Bank of Canada, without interfering with the ownership of the private banks."

"It is sometimes urged that the banks should be taken over by the state, as the Bank of Canada has been taken over. It should be quite possible to give Canada an effective measure of monetary reform, however, without bringing state ownership into this realm of private enterprise."

"It would be no remedy merely to appoint state committees to manage the banks in place of private directors. Actually there are no more effective executives available than the present administrative heads in commercial banking. They would be no more efficient employed by the state than they are at present."

"It is doubtful whether the service given to the public through the banks, as in the case of small personal loans, could be as well handled under there are some natural monopolies where it is obviously in the control of state banking public interest to have state ownership, control and operation. There is no need for any such departure in state banking. The government's responsibility is to control monetary policy through the Bank of Canada. The direct service of loans to the public can well be carried on through the existing banks."

The appointment last week of D. E. O. (Dan) Campbell, formerly news editor of radio station C.F.C.N. at Calgary, as public relations counsel for the provincial government is being regarded as showing that Aberhart, his cabinet and his supporters realize that the government's past policy of having its members attack the press and other institutions in an effort to gain public sympathy has not worked out. Mr. Campbell, an able newspaperman of many years' standing in Alberta, has been among those whom Premier Aberhart has criticized in the past three years, because he has reported facts which did not reflect to the government's credit. But when the government found that it needed a man in whom newspapers & the public would have confidence, it chose Mr. Campbell for the job. It also appointed an advertising agency to prepare advertising on behalf of the government, to promote the "treasury branches" first.

Mr. Campbell's appointment is one of the most practical and helpful that could have been made. The public and the news papers alike will now have a chance of getting news about government happenings and a accomplishments that is news. Part of the trouble in the past has been that Premier Aberhart who has no more conception of what is or isn't news than a thirteen-year old school boy, has expected and demanded that newspapers print what he wanted in his way regardless of its news value. Now with an experienced newspaper man in Mr. Campbell's post there is an excellent chance for the public to get government news that is authentic and factual. War is much like marriage. In the excitement that precedes it, nobody thinks about the business of washing dishes.

PSYCHOLOGY

Psychology is a deep sounding word, and the average person hardly knows what it means.
It is defined as the science of human mind. But profound as the subject is, yet it is a line of thought that is being studied by many unemployed people, who are anxious to find ways by which they can make good in the world.

Many people who know little or nothing about theoretical psychology, are yet in a practical way very good psychologists themselves. A politician or instance may never have studied this science in any book yet instinct tells him how the minds of his constituents work. Many politicians are too much swayed by every current popular opinion that blows, so that they are not much more than mere weather vanes. But still any successful statesman has to know what the people are thinking in their inmost minds, before he can sway their thoughts.

The good salesman is an excellent psychologist. He knows how the mind of his customer works. He tries to adopt himself to the tendencies in the mind of his customers, and how to appeal to different types of minds.

One reason why many persons fail to read people's minds, is that they are so anxious to talk themselves and express their own thoughts, that they rarely listen to others. The person who listens more than he talks, knows the thoughts that are passing through the minds of the people, and is better able to predict what they will do, and what kind of argument will appeal to them.

It's settlement time and Ser-retaries and Treasurers are busy wrestling with figures trying to get a balance in their records. The early part of the year too, and as one cartoon stated "The town is already flooded with broken Christmas toys and New Year's resolutions."

KING GEORGE VI

the young Prince Albert as a the keepers used to look on remarkably good shot and an excellent fisherman. Riding, of course, is an early accomplishment of all members of the Royal Family and the Prince engaged in his first foxhound meet at West Norfolk right after the close of the World War.

From 1895 to 1905, the first thirteen years of his life, Prince Albert lived the healthy and happy existence of the average well-bred English boy of those days. He followed the fortunes of the British armies in the Boer War with youthful enthusiasm. He appreciated the sadness that accompanied the death of Queen Victoria, feeling keenly the loss. However, he was far too young to realize the significance of the events and up to this stage of his life, it is a comparatively quiet and ineventful story.

But when he left these school days behind, the general pace was accelerated, particularly when he began his career in the Royal Navy.
